Dramatic Scene From "Two Hands"

■ Taking leads in the recent production, "Duet for Two Hands," were, left to right, Jean Robertson, Ann Newkirk, Ray Wilson, and Fred Olsen. The play, sponsored by the Salinas College-Community Theater group, had a successful three-day run last week. It was the first production of the year.

Successful "Two Hands" Was Shot In Arm For Little Theater Group

The College-Community Theater of Salinas opened on November 11 with Mary Hayley Bell's compelling suspense drama, "Duet for Two Hands," for a successful three-night performance in the Hartnell College Little Theater.

The plot of this strange and exciting play took place in an eighteenth century castle on one of the many islands of the Orkney group.

It concerned the life of an eminent English doctor whose disregard by his colleagues and society has caused him to perform an operation of a miraculous nature in order to "show the world" his true genius.

Dr. Edward Sarcelet, a man of strange character and complexity of personality, was portrayed by Mr. Ray Wilson, who in this production, showed unusual versatility as an actor.

Another veteran of College-Community Players is Miss Ann Newkirk, who did a fine interpretation of Hilda, the sister of the eminent surgeon, a woman of strong character and amiable nature.

Cast in the role of Abigail, the doctor's enchanting daughter and a girl as wild and vivid as the islands in which she lives, is Miss Jean Robertson of Santa Cruz.

Mr. Stephen Cass, who represents "exhibit A" for the great doctor as his patient and a promising young poet in his own right, was characterized by Mr. Frederick Olsen who played with the College of Pacific Players last season.

Miss Jennett Gudgel, Hartnell College drama major from San Lorenzo Valley, stage-managed the show with able assistance from Mr. Neal Allred, former College-Community actor. Mr. Hal Ulrici directed the production which opened November 11 and ran through Saturday evening, the 13th.

Bauer, McPharlin Y.F. Meet Reps

The Salinas Chapter of Young Farmers held its regular meeting on Monday, November 8; on the Hartnell A. and M. campus. This organization is for young men of the community who are engaged in actual farming or a related occupation.

Salinas Young Farmers elected to send two delegates to the regional Y.F. meeting at San Luis Obispo. Don Bauer and Jim McPharlin will represent the local chapter. President James Burr presented a tentative program of work for the remaining school year.

Joe Muir of the Farm Extension Office will speak to the group at its next meeting, November 22. Mr.

Pat Mertz Wears Hartnell College Art Club Jacket

Hartnell College's famous Art Club jacket, worn by the president of the Art Club each year since 1938, has been awarded to Miss Pat Mertz, according to Hartnell Art Director Leon Amyx.

The jacket serves as an official smock for the Art Club president during the term of office. Painted on the jacket are the names of previous presidents going back to 1938.

The first wearer was Winifred Leonard and since that date the jacket has been worn by several other outstanding students. The most noted, according to Mr. Amyx, is Elden Dedini, a King City high school graduate who added his name to the jacket in 1941. Since graduation Mr. Dedini has received national recognition for his illustrations and cartoons.

Mr. Dedini's work has appeared in Esquire and New Yorker and early in his career it was featured in the Californian. He also illustrated Don Sauer's popular book, "Girl Watcher's Guide," which only recently has been put on the market. Mr. Dedini now is living in Carmel.

Gus Whitaker, president of the Hartnell Art Club in 1939 and 1940, formerly of Pacific Grove, now is an art teacher at Michigan State College. Joe Bragdon, president in 1947, from Monterey, now is teaching at Stockton high school. Bob Kensinger of Santa Cruz, president in 1949, now is studying in Europe.

Miss Loava Mead, the 1953 president, from Hollister, is studying advanced art at San Jose State College.

Hartnell Artists - Today, Yesterday

■ Famed Cartoonist Elden Dedini, an alumnus of Hartnell, adds the name of Pat Mertz to the famous Hartnell Art Club jacket. The jacket, first used in 1938, is worn each year by the club's president, and his name is printed thereon. Dedini's name was added in 1941.

Hartnell Commissioners Take Active Part In Student Confab

By PETE JORGENSEN

The 18th Bi-annual Conference of the California Junior College Student Government Association, under the presidency of Jim Southwell, was held Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, November 9, 10, and 11.

Staying at beautiful Asilomar-by-the-Sea, located on the Monterey Peninsula, over 400 delegates and advisors represented 57 various colleges situated throughout entire California.

Ranging from as far north as Shasta and as far south as San Diego, they traveled by plane, train, bus and car to represent their respective colleges. On hand to greet them were Monterey Peninsula College, hosts for 1954, and co-hosts Hartnell and Menlo College.

The purpose of the C.J.C.S.G.A. is threefold: (1) to provide a means for discussing problems of the member schools pertaining to student government and activities; (2) to promote better relations between the junior colleges of the state; (3) to establish a statewide student organization to promote the best interests of the students. Any recognized junior college or two-year collegiate institution in the state of California, upon payment of the required dues, may become a member of this organization.

The "Welcome Banquet," held Wednesday evening, was under the chairmanship of Miss Anne Sawin of M.P.C. After the dinner, she introduced the state officers, followed by Doctor Balsam's speech.

A "Get-Acquainted Dance" was held from 9 to 1 a.m. the same evening in Merrill Hall with Miss Handley acting as advisor and Miss Georgana Grossi performing the duties of chairman of the gala affair. "Tropical Gardens" was the theme with the stage decorated in an underwater scene with an array of begonias in various colors. Dick Gularte and his Melody Men furnished the music for the evening's entertainment.

Representing Hartnell in the various workshops were Steve Jones, Sue Crawford, Marie Mauro, Gwenn Stewart, Annabelle Chirachi, Arlene Olsen, and Reggie Kenyon.

Thanksgiving

"What have I to be thankful for?" is a year-round question put forth by many of us. It doesn't take the arrival of Thanksgiving Day to cause many persons to pessimistically deny that any graces have been bestowed upon themselves.

Take the case of the American college student who might assume this attitude. Does he really know how fortunate he is?

The educational system of Communistic Russia and the eleven countries under her thumb is said to be thorough, but thorough only to the effect that it meets fully the demands of those who would like the world to defy God and the rights of the individual man.

A student in Karkov or Sofia, truly, has little to look forward to. Those who make it into government have only proved that they have been drilled far enough in the Bolshevik ideas; becoming a religious leader is entering a life that has many stumbling blocks in nations where materialism has gained great prominence. Of course there is always the military (everyone must train to bear arms) and the unadvantageous vocational railway and factory apprenticeship schools.

Texts, faculty, ideals, are all moulded in one direct: The depression of the common man and the furtherment of the Party.

If those in America doubt that they have been blessed could concentrate long enough on what this existence would be like, they would emit: "I certainly have much to be thankful for. I was born, raised, and educated in America, a God-fearing, democratic nation."—C. P.

Our "Dormitories"

The dormitory has often been termed as the most important institution of a college. It is there where the social life of a school is strengthened and knowledge advanced through discussion.

Here at Hartnell there are no dormitories, it is true, but we have those places wherein friendship and compatibility are promoted. Clubs and organizations partly serve this purpose, but the contacts made there are many times slow in progressing and seldom blossom into something to be looked back upon later.

But in the cafeteria, lounge, and on the lawns students are meeting every hour of every day. All over the campus collegians with every type of background gather in groups and whether each knows the other's name is of no matter. In other later meetings names will come up and life histories will be related.

Even though our school is comparatively small, the fact that at the end of the year everyone knows practically everyone else is representative of the caliber of our "dormitories."—C. P.

Is Our Newspaper Dying?

What? NO Panther Sentinel this week!

This has been the "question of the week" for two weeks running. Frankly, we are a bit tired of going into the involved explanation that provides the answer. We have hit with brevity and tried "no money" or "budget has been cut." This hasn't been satisfactory in any of the cases.

When going into the involved answer we cannot help editorializing our comments. We maintain that since the student body isn't compelled to earmark funds for Chemistry lab experiments why should they have to pay for Journalism lab experiments? The Panther Sentinel is a Journalism experiment!

Why additional district funds don't provide enough money for regular publication of our newspaper is beyond us.

Right now we have enough money left for an average of one and one-half issues per month for the rest of the 1954-55 school year.

We just hope that the budget isn't cut again next year or Hartnell's newspaper will surely go out of existence.

P.S.: Monterey P.C.'s newspaper just went on weekly basis.—C. P.

AWS Prepares For Yule Season

Christmas is coming! No one is more aware of this fact than A.W.S. Each year during the holiday season A.W.S. presents for the student body a Christmas program which proves to be one of the most outstanding activities of the year.

President Maxine Russo says that this year will be no exception from the traditional rule. Chairmen for the various committees are now being selected. Sign up for committee work will soon be held so that all women students will have an opportunity to prepare for the gala event.

"I hope the entire student body will take part in this Christmas program," said President Maxine, "We should all find more time to do things together. When we have the spirit of being together as a group plus the Christmas spirit, how can a person possibly help but gain an uplifting feeling of good will."

CAMPAIGN PROMISES: Two candidates were up and running in the recent election for a particular office and for protective reasons I prefer to call them X and Y (common algebraic pronouns). I was so certain that Y would win that the day before the election I promised my fellow bus riders that I would buy them each an ice cream cone if X was the victor. With this encouragement my fellow commuters went out and voted for X, and he won.

With the campaign promise affixed in my frustrated mind I trudged toward the bus upon departure time the next day only to find no less than a hundred odd (?) souls therein. Friend had joined friend in the yellow vehicle to partake in the ice cream festival and I was the goat. I executed a quick escape and made it home on the back of a lettuce truck.

I was assailed from every side the next day, as you can well imagine, and so I sought aid from my lawyer, Paul "Picklepu" Heaney. P. P. told me that the commuters didn't have a leg to stand on. Penning the text of my promise he discovered three flaws: (1) the promise stood for only one day, therefore was already void; (2) an "ice cream cone" does not necessarily contain ice cream; (3) I had promised a "cone" to those "on" the bus and not "in" it. So if there were any of the hundred-odd ice cream lovers atop the bus that day I'm sorry I wasn't there to toss you a crumpled old cone.

HARTNELL HEARTHROBS: Joe "Hollywood" Maras is sportin' a triple-rock sparkler waiting for some lass to say "Gimme that!" . . . Al Burke utilizes radio disc shows to transfer messages to unsuspecting females. His favorite record: "If I Give My Heart to You?" Girls' favorite reply: "You need the blood pump." . . . Can't keep up with Martin Wenks. His latest: Mary Ellen Ryan. Stick with me for up-to-date changes. . . . Then there is Marie Kirland and Don Halterman. They look good together 'cause they're the same size. . . . Glenna Bapsed and her beau Charlie Collins will be fighting on the sidelines Thanksgiving Day. He goes to M.P.C. . . . Arlene Pesce who lives in S-Cruz got off at the "choke! cough! choke! center of the world" the other day to meet her boyfriend. Is he a "choke" king? . . . Doris Van Ess is looking for the Christmas present of a lifetime: Her husband back from army duty in Alaska. . . . Gene Norcross has the strangest love of all. He loves himself. Sez he's the greatest drummer in the world. . . . Why does everyone insist on calling me Louella Parsons?

KOLLEGE KARACTERS: Larry Musial of Hartnell, believe it or not, has a brother named Stan. Yes, Stan Musial. AND, believe it or not again, the family used to live in St. Louis. That's not where the story ends, however. In the midwest city, THE Stan Musial had (and probably still has) an unlisted telephone number. Fans wanting to call THE Stan invariably called our Musials. "Please let me speak to Stan," they would say, thinking they would get The Man. "Hello, this is Stan," Larry's brother would say. "You were great today," the fan would say. At this point Larry's brother had the option of being a great baseball star or a frustrated "commoner" with a lot of explaining to do.

Two other semi-celebrities amongst us are Joe Miller and Allen Chappelle. These Hartnellites went to Monterey Presidio a couple of weeks ago where a chess tournament sponsored by a British master named Konig was under way. Konig was beating his opponents left and right until our boys came into the picture. Miller and Chappelle each drew a tie with Britain's best, who 'tis said, has written many books on the game.

SCRATCHIN' AWAY: Everybody wants to get into the act dept.: Dena Shanks was caught practicing on the baton in the lounge and Jerry Little was caught practicing on the trumpet off by himself in the corner. Who can keep trumpet practicing a secret? . . . Wanting to become a drum majorette reminds me of how Tom Kyle, Tony Vargas and Ron Earl showed off their "stuff" during a noon band practice a couple of weeks back. They were terrific. . . . Frankie Cox swears that she ran away from kindergarten and didn't receive any more schoolin' till she came to Hartnell. Her professors swear it, too. . . . Eddie Ross was born in Hawaii and always complains of being tired. Do you get the connection? So don't I. . . . Mary Monley went trick or treatin' on Halloween. I wonder if that was the witch with the same costume as me. . . . Gretchen Watson's name will surely be added to the Art Club jacket. And remember that you "knew her when" as she will surely go places. What an artist! . . . Elden Dellanina and George Sciutto are the plague of the Math 51 class. Nothin' but yak! yak! lak! Those yaks. . . . 'Tis said that Sue Crawford chews five sticks of gum at one time; all different brands, too. My sources say, too, that she chews in tune to the music at dances. This is hard to conceive, but . . .

THE PLOT THICKENS: Geography professor: "What large animals are not usually found in rainy tropical countries?" Tom Kyle from away in rear: "Polar bears!" . . . Jack "Shoeless" Roe (who is also known by "Preacher," "Skid," and "Tiger") really likes trains, they say. "Oh look at those nice choo-choos," he's been heard to emit upon seeing them. Glad to see that I'm not the only one who has attained a reputation for lunacy around here. . . .

A certain somebody who we shall simply term as S. S. let the air out of Jim (Drafted) Maloney's tires. For daze Jim thought the tires were flat and just let the auto sit in the parking lot. . . . Brotherly love dept: John Georgalos ran for mayor of the "city" of Santa Rita and was defeated by none other than his brother. . . . Where do I get all this junk? . . .

Schneickert, Earl, Nava Attended Hartnell Before Former Prep Coach

Three members of the Panther football squad have been in college one year longer than their former high school coach. Ron Earl, Paul Nava, and Gary Schneickert were all on hand to greet Ken Blue when he first came to Hartnell this year. All three served under Blue at San Jose high school.

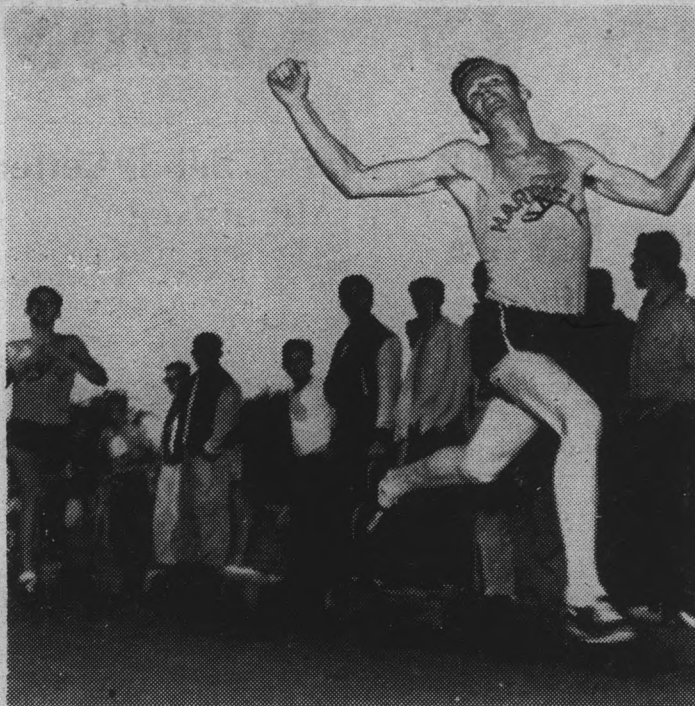

Schneickert is one of the outstanding tackles on the squad. He is a returning letterman and was awarded a jacket last year. Football is his favorite sport and he hopes to become a football coach. Schneickert's biggest thrill in football was in picking up a fumble and racing for 75 yards and a touchdown. He likes all sports and claims art as his hobby. Schneickert is a sophomore, 19 years old, and lives in San Jose.

Paul Nava, a 20 year old halfback, is rated as one of the best offensive players on the squad. He kicks most of the extra points for the Panthers. Nava is a physical education major and supports a B average in his courses. He was captain of the San Jose game along with the others from that city. He lives in San Jose but resides in Salinas during the school sessions.

Ron Earl has held down the center post ever since he switched over from guard. The 200 pound lineman has been the mainstay of the

Panthers Clip Poly Mustangs

The Hartnell Panthers ran their win skein to three straight by virtue of their 31-7 shellacking of the Cal Poly Mustangs at Salinas on November 5.

Hartnell notched two touchdowns in the initial period. The first came on a quarterback sneak by Takeo Hirahara from one yard out. Paul Nava made the conversion.

After the ball had exchanged hands twice, the Panthers scored again. The TD jaunt came by Halfback Nick Pagnini on a pitch-out covering five yards. The drive was sparked by a 26 yard pass play from Hirahara to End Hal Boutte.

In the third quarter Pagnini skirted around end for four yards and six points. Tom Kyle, veteran fullback, paved the way with a 52-yard smash.

Halfback Nava hit pay dirt from one yard out a little while later. Hartnell had garnered the pigskin following a Mustang fumble.

The final TD was added by Halfback Dave Gallegos when he took a punt in the last minute of play and rambled 65 yards into the end zone.

The Mustang score came in the opening minutes of play.

Panthers vs. Lobos In Big Game

Monterey Rated 7 Point Favorites To Nip Rivals

By KEN DAUGHERTY

The Hartnell Panthers will close their 1954 grid season on Thanksgiving Day when they face the Monterey Peninsula College Lobos in the annual "Big Game" of the Monterey Bay area.

Monterey has been rated a solid seven-point favorite to beat the Panthers for the first time in three years. The odds mean little to both teams, as anything can happen and usually does, in the battle for the football supremacy of the area.

Offense To Win Game

The outcome will probably be decided by the offensive power of the team that scores the most points first. Monterey has a brilliant passing attack, a thing that the short defensive backs of Hartnell have been unable to stop so far this year, and the Panthers must gear their attack to match the Lobos.

Hartnell has a good groundgaining backfield and the running of Tom Kyle, Paul Nava and Bob Fierro will be heavily counted upon. Quarterback Takeo Hirahara can keep the Monterey defense "honest" by his passes to Jim Zachary and Harold Boutte.

Hartnell Line Solid

The Hartnell line has shown itself to be as hard as a rock and have made several great goal line stands. The main defensive weakness of the Panthers seems to be its inability to hold an opponent on a third down and 10 yards to go situation.

Monterey boasts of one of the best passing quarterbacks in the league. Gene Mazzei has hit for 1136 yards in 153 attempts. His favorite target has been end Walt Langford who has caught 44 passes, seven of which were good for touchdowns.

Len Beatie, Lobo halfback, has averaged over seven yards per carry, and fullback John Lewis has hit for 5.6. Lewis and Beatie are the teams' leading scorers, with Walt Langford following behind.

Comparative scores between the two teams would indicate an even contest. Monterey lost to San Jose JC 12-6, and Hartnell fell 20-13.

Monterey Holds Sequoia

Monterey has improved, however, and held the College of Sequoia 19-27 after coming close to an upset. Sequoia is one of the nation's top junior college teams and is rated second in the race to the Junior Rose Bowl.

The Hogan's Keg is at stake and a Hartnell victory would keep the keg in the Panther trophy case for the fourth straight year. The keg has been stolen by Monterey students who have openly boasted that Hartnell would lose and that they have saved Hartnell from the disgrace and humiliation of returning the keg after Monterey had beat the daylighters out of them.

Kickoff time is scheduled for 12:00 at the Salinas High School Stadium.

San Jose Nips Hartnell, 20-13

By KEN KLEMPNAUER

The Hartnell Panthers threw a scare into the San Jose Jaguars before finally being tripped up 20-13 last Friday at Salinas stadium.

Rated as definite underdogs before the contest, the Panthers outplayed but couldn't outscore the visiting ball club. The Jaguars were supposed to really wallop Hartnell but except for two breaks, an intercepted pass and a fumble, would have gone down in defeat.

San Jose's Ben Gusman started off right for the victors when he took a handoff on the opening kickoff and raced 85 yards for a touchdown. Jim Manson place kicked for the extra point.

That was all of the scoring in the initial half. Late in the third period Quarterback John Stewart of San Jose punted down to the Hartnell 12 yard line. Halfback Bob Fierro gathered it in and scampered 88 yards for the first Hartnell score. The try-for-point was no good.

Midway in the fourth quarter Stewart intercepted a Hartnell pass on the latter's 30 yard line. Four plays later with the ball resting on the 25, Stewart tossed to End Ed Brew for a TD, the conversion attempt was no good.

Hartnell fumbled the following kickoff on their own 26. Three plays garnered six yards for the visitors and then Stewart flipped once more, this time to End Bob Gonzales in the end zone. Manson split the uprights.

The Panthers came back strong. Commencing on their own 30, the maroon and gold marched up to the San Jose 17 before Quarterback Takeo Hirahara completed a pass to End Jim Zachary in pay dirt. The extra point was added in like manner with Zachary and Hirahara again performing the honors.

Wesley Bond Leads Hartnell to Win

Hartnell's Wesley Bond walked away from a field of over 20 top junior college runners to take top honors in the first annual Hartnell college-San Jose college two and one-half-mile cross country meet.

The Hartnell varsity with a low score of 24 won the meet.

Bond nosed out team mate Dick Casper for first place honors. San

MPC Sends Letter About Keg

EDITOR'S NOTE:—The following was received by Hartnell President John Lemos from some anonymous M.P.C. students.

Dear Pussy Cat: (if that is too subtle, we are referring to that broken down alley cat you call a "Panther.")

Our famous "Louie the Lobo" decided to take a trip to the lettuce sheds and see how the other half lives.

Upon coming into Salinas, he decided to drop in on our hapless rivals and take a look at OUR KEG we let you borrow for a few seasons. Being the ever so thoughtful wolf he is; he decided to spare all you poor unfortunate lettuce pickers the humiliation and grief in handing over the KEG to us on Thanksgiving Day after our big game. So we helped him relieve you of it and took it back to God's Country where it belongs.

Please don't fret all you poor misguided lost souls who go to Hartnell, for if you ask real polite we may let you borrow it again in say 20 years from now when we get tired of beating the daylighters out of you in football. But in the mean while you'll just have to come over to the "Land of Enchantment" if you want to get a glimpse of it.

Mournfully yours,
MPC'ites

P.S.: Crying towels for all Hartnell students will be on sale at a nominal cost after the Thanksgiving Day classic—We thank you.

Panthers Coast Over San Mateo Bulldogs

Hartnell's Panthers coasted to their second victory when they trounced the San Mateo Bulldogs, 19-6, at Redwood City on October 30.

Led by Quarterback Takeo Hirahara, the Panthers dominated play throughout the contest. The vastly improving field general skirted his own right end for the first touchdown in the initial quarter.

In the second period, Paul Nava scampered around left end for the second scoreboard six. The hard-charging scaback-place kicked the extra point.

The final TD came on a pass from Hirahara to End Jim Zachary. The play covered 20 yards and gave Hartnell a commanding lead.

San Mateo came right back and scored when Quarterback Rutch Marliani sneaked over from one yard out.

Short Circuit

By KEN DAUGHERTY

Sometime during the night of October 21, an unidentified group of Monterey Peninsula College students broke into the Hartnell trophy case and took the Hogan's Keg.

The keg is a small one and holds only about two gallons. It has practically no use whatsoever; and its main purpose in life seems to be something for MPC students to "kegnap."

The keg came into being in 1949 when it was presented to Monterey College by the Hoganite Club, and its purpose was to be presented to the winner of the annual Hartnell Monterey football contest.

Everything went all right for the first two years. Monterey won the football games and the keg remained on their campus.

In 1951 a terrible thing happened for MPC, Hartnell won. In fact, they've won ever since. And with the victory came the Hogans Keg. Proud Hartnellites were only able to enjoy the hard won keg for a little over a month. For in January of '52, the keg was stolen and was not seen at Hartnell until it was surrendered by Monterey in October of the same year.

As the score now stands, Monterey has had possession of the keg 4 times to Hartnell's 3. The Lobos have won it twice and stolen it the same number, for a .500 average. Apparently they are just as good thieves as they are football players.

Speaking of Monterey we hear that two of their players are out for a showing against Hartnell. Al Mitchell, a second string halfback, and Jerry Seibus a second string guard for the Lobos, originally tried out for the Hartnell squad but were cut in four days. Word has it that they have really improved during the season and are "up" for the Hartnell contest.

It's going to be interesting to watch just where a Hartnell teacher, Mrs. Patricia Peterson, is going to sit during the Monterey game. Her husband is an instructor at MPC and we hear that he is a devoted Lobo fan.

Liggett Lancaster Handles Manager Chores For Hartnell Panther Squad

Every rabid football fan knows that it takes a good coaching staff and eleven strong young men to make up a football team. But every fan does not know that an important reason behind the smooth running of a grid power is the capabilities of the team manager. Hartnell is fortunate in having Liggett Lancaster handling the manager chores for the Panther varsity.

Liggett is one of those individuals who possesses school spirit in every sense of the word. He was declared ineligible to participate in football so he decided to take the manager's job.

The mild-mannered fellow hails from the deep south of California from a spot called Long Beach. He was first string tackle on his high school team, Long Beach Polytechnic. Liggett moved to Salinas after graduation.

However, a regulation which prohibits an athlete to participate for a junior college outside of his high school district forced him to quit the Panther squad. He will be eligible to play next year because he will have established residence in the Hartnell district for one year.

Being one not to give up his favorite past time of football so easily, Liggett decided to handle the manager's job. He stated, "I figured that I didn't know all there was to know about football so I decided to stick around."

While in high school he was twice named to the all-league and all-city squads. He held down the tackle position for the Poly Jack-rabbits, a team which won the city and league championship the two years that he played. Occasionally he took over the fullback spot when the team needed a couple of yards.

Liggett stands 5' 8" and tips the scales at 170 pounds. He is a science major and plans on extending his schooling at Long Beach State or Whittier College.

Hartnell Participates In Volleyball Tourney

By SYLVIA SNYDER

Hartnell participated in the volleyball tournament held recently at Marin Junior College. Participating were teams from CCSF, San Mateo, West Contra Costa, East Contra Costa, Santa Rosa, Napa, Marin, and Hartnell junior colleges.

Pacing the Panther attack was Jack Rowley who was acting captain. In the co-ed phase Nancy Tripp captained the Hartnell girls to victory.

Two games were played with both men and women students. Later others were played separately.
